THE EVENT

Indiana University, one of the leading home dialysis programs in the United States, invites you to participate in its 10th dialysis symposium and workshop.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this program, participant should be able to:

- Recognize the evidence supporting the benefits of a home dialysis program on the mortality and morbidity of increased frequency dialysis therapy in the U.S.
- Identify the financial and programmatic needs of starting and maintaining a program.
- Increase recruitment, education and retention of patients and staff.
- Discuss techniques for empowering the patient in decision making and how empowerment improves recruitment and retention.
- Identify the social impacts, benefits of peer mentoring and end of life peritoneal dialysis programs.
- Identify the benefits of a comprehensive home dialysis program and present how to integrate home dialysis and peritoneal dialysis programs.
