Course Description

This medical education activity is intended for pediatricians, pediatric residents, family practitioners, emergency physicians, nurse practitioners and clinical staff working with pediatric patients.

The conference will address current research, therapies, and clinical outcomes. The conference is appropriate for practitioners in both a community or hospital setting. Any health professional interested in the care of pediatric patients is welcome.

Course Objectives

At the conclusion of this activity, participants should be able to:

Neurosurgery Update for the Pediatrician

- Recognize common pediatric neurological disorders that may be seen in the pediatrician's office.

Nutritional Needs for the NICU Graduate

- Identify the nutritional needs required of the infant discharged from the neonatal intensive care unit.

New Drugs of Abuse

- Recognize new drugs of abuse.

How to Survive (Maybe Even Thrive) Despite the Storm

- Describe and apply skills to navigate the complexities of today's healthcare.
