Continuing Medical Education

Course Description

Designed for medical oncologists, surgeons, oncology nurses, and oncology pharmacists, this program will provide the participants with the latest information available as presented at the 2014 American Society of Clinical Oncology (ASCO) Meeting, a highly valued conference which focuses on the latest research findings in the treatment of cancer. Eleven of the IUSM's Oncology/Hematology faculty members will provide participants with their analysis of the more clinically applicable presentations at this year's ASCO meeting.

Course Objectives

At the conclusion of this program, learners will be able to:

- Recall and describe the newest developments in the treatment of a variety of solid tumors, including:
 - Breast Cancer
 - Lung Cancer
 - Gastrointestinal Cancers
 - Genito-Urinary Cancers
 - Melanoma
 - Health Services Research
 - Phase I and Phase II Studies
 - Hematologic Malignancies
- Recognize and explain the newest developments in the treatment of a variety of hematologic malignancies.
- Integrate multimodality treatment strategies, including radiation therapy, chemotherapy, and targeted therapy, into the management of patients with lung cancer.
- Based on the most up-to-date treatments described in learning sessions, incorporate new knowledge about therapies of solid tumors and hematologic malignancies into their clinical practice.
